NOTIFICATION—No. 2676.

The 6th August 1895.—The following papers are published for general information.

C. E. BUCKLAND,
Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

*Extract, paragraph 9, from the letter from the Commissioner of the Presidency Division,
No. $\frac{G.}{19F.}$, dated the 13th May 1895.*

PARA. 9.—Results of inspection.—On the whole, 37 more inspections were held during the year under report than in the previous year. It appears from the reports received from the several Inspectors that the requirements of the Factories Act and the rules framed thereunder were generally complied with, and that suggestions made by the Inspectors as regards sanitary improvements, supply of drinking water and attention to the rules, were readily attended to. The Bengal Cotton Mills seem to form an exception. The manager of this mill has often been found to disregard orders and to employ children in his factory under the age of nine years. I have requested the Magistrate to give him a formal warning of the measures which the law allows to be taken against him, if he continues to disregard the authority of the officers of Government.

No. 1939, dated Calcutta, the 4th June 1895.

From—N. BENHAM-CARTER, Esq., Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal,
General Department,

To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

WITH reference to your letter No. $\frac{G.}{19F.}$, dated the 13th May 1895, submitting the report on the working of the Indian Factories Act in your Division during the year 1894, I am directed to request that a special report may be submitted on the disregard of orders by the manager of the Bengal Cotton Mills, and the employment in his factory of children under nine years, mention of which is made in paragraph 9 of your letter.

No. $\frac{G.}{62F.}$, dated Calcutta, the 23rd July 1895.

From—E. V. WESTMACOTT, Esq., Commissioner of the Presidency Division,
To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, General Department.

WITH reference to your No. 1939, dated the 4th June last, and the subsequent reminder, I have the honour to submit, for the information of Government, copy of letter No. 2493, dated the 27th idem, from the Magistrate of the 24-Parganas, on the subject of employment of children under nine years of age at the Bengal Cotton Mills.

2. With regard to paragraphs 3 and 4 of the Magistrate's letter, I have informed him that in any case in which an Inspector feels any doubt as to a child's age, he must call for a regular certificate from the certifying Surgeon, who is specified in paragraph 6 of Government Resolution No. 1312, dated the 30th April 1892, and that the certificate of a mill doctor cannot be accepted.

No. 2493, dated Alipore, the 27th June 1895.

From—E. W. COLLIN, Esq., Offg. Magistrate of the 24-Parganas,
To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

WITH reference to your letter No. 47G.F., dated the 13th instant, on the subject of the employment of children at the Bengal Cotton Mills, it appears that in June 1894, the Civil Surgeon reported that the age of all the children employed had been certified. On the 6th November 1894, out of 263 children, 55 were examined and 6 were found below nine years of age. In your letter No. 138G.F., dated the 27th November, it was said that the six children should not be allowed to work. On the 30th November the Special Inspector complained that the register of children in Form E was not kept in proper form, nor were certificates of ages given in the proper forms. He also reported that there was no regular manager there, and that the management of the factory was lax. The agents were addressed, and were requested to see that the Register E was properly kept up, and that no child was admitted without a certificate of age. In March 1895, the Special Inspector of Factories reported that the Register E was kept up to date, and that the names of children were correctly entered and their ages certified.

2. On the 11th April 1895, the mills were again inspected by the Civil Surgeon. He examined 44 children out of 150 employed, and found three under age, and on the 10th May 1895, the manager was warned that the employment of children under the age of nine in contravention of section 7(1) of the Act would make him liable to prosecution.

3. In compliance with your letter No. 97G.F., dated 13th June 1895, I deputed the Joint-Magistrate to make an inquiry. He found that the children declared to be under 9 years of age by the Civil Surgeon at his inspection of the 11th April had been dismissed, and that the manager employs a qualified native doctor, without whose certificate no children are employed.

4. It appears that the manager does not obtain a certificate from a certifying Surgeon as to the age of all children employed, as he has been instructed to do. On this subject I have the honour to refer you to my letter No. 2492, dated the 27th June 1895, from which it will appear that such order is not justified by the law as it at present stands. I have the honour to suggest that if at the next inspection the Civil Surgeon finds any children under nine years of age, the manager should be prosecuted.

No. 2621, dated Calcutta, the 5th August 1895.

From—C. E. BUCKLAND, Esq., C.I.E., Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal, General Department,

To—The Commissioner of the Presidency Division.

I AM directed to acknowledge the receipt of your letter No. ^{G.}_{62F.}, dated the 23rd July 1895, and its enclosure, submitting a special report on the disregard of orders by the Manager of the Bengal Cotton Mills in regard to the employment in his factory of children under nine years.

2. In reply, I am to say that the leniency with which the Manager of the mill has been treated for his repeated breaches of the law has been very great, and in future if any breach is proved against him, he should be dealt with according to the strict provisions of the law.

By order,

R. BELCHAMBERS,

Registrar.

It is ordered that the following Rules be read and passed as Rules of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, to take effect from the 12th day of August 1895:—

1. From and after the 12th day of August 1895, three General Cause Lists shall be kept in the Registrar's Office, to be called respectively "General List of Causes," "General List of Suits for Liquidated Claims," and "General List of Commercial Causes."

2. Every suit which is a commercial cause, that is to say, in which the claim arises out of the ordinary transactions of merchants and traders—amongst others, those relating to the construction of mercantile documents, exports or imports of merchandise, affreightment, insurance, banking and mercantile agency and mercantile usage—shall be entered in the General List of Commercial Causes.

3. On and after the 12th day of August 1895, when a plaint is presented, the Judge shall, on the application to that effect of the plaintiff, unless he be of opinion, on reading the plaint, that the suit does not properly belong to the class of commercial causes, as described in rule 2, direct that the suit shall be placed in the General List of Commercial Causes. When no such application is made, it shall be for the Judge, when a plaint is presented, to determine whether the case shall as a commercial cause be placed in such list.

4. Either party may apply, by summons, to the Judge in Chambers that any case entered in the General List of Causes, whether before or after the 12th day of August 1895, may be transferred to the General List of Commercial Causes.

5. Either party may apply, by summons, to the Judge in Chambers, that any case entered in the General List of Commercial Causes may be transferred to the General List of Causes, on the ground only that the case is not a commercial cause; provided that the plaintiff shall not be entitled to apply under this rule for the transfer of a case from the General List of Commercial Causes if such case was entered therein on his application.

6. Whenever two or more Courts shall sit concurrently in the exercise of Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction, two or, if there be three Courts, three peremptory lists of defended causes shall be prepared for every working day, and, unless otherwise ordered, one or, if there be three Courts, two of such lists shall be supplied with cases from the General List of Causes, and the other with cases from the General List of Suits for Liquidated Claims, and from the General List of Commercial Causes, and also, when necessary, from the General List of Causes.

7. When only one Court shall sit in the exercise of Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction, one peremptory list of defended causes shall be prepared for every working day, and shall be supplied on such day or days of each week as such Judge may order, first with cases from the General List of Suits for Liquidated Claims, next with cases from the General List of Commercial Causes, and next with cases from the General List of Causes.

8. All applications in Chambers and all motions in cases placed in the General List of Commercial Causes will be heard by the Judge in whose list suits for liquidated claims and commercial causes shall for the time being be set down.

9. The Rules of this Court for regulating its procedure on the Original Side are hereby confirmed, except so far as they are inconsistent with these rules.

A Dictionary of the Economic Products of India. By DR. GEO. WATT, C.I.E.,

Reporter on Economic Products.

Published under the authority of the Government of India in the Revenue and Agricultural Department.

The first five volumes and Vol. VI, Parts I, II, III & IV of the Dictionary are now ready at the Office of Superintendent of Government Printing, No. 8, Hastings Street, Calcutta, and will be supplied to non-subscribers on receipt of the price for the complete set, which is Rs. 45 in India, and 3 guineas in England (exclusive of the index, for which a separate charge will be made): packing and postage, in India, 8 annas per volume; for England, Rs. 2-6 per volume. For copies bound in half calf or half morocco, Rs. 6 and 8 shillings, respectively, will be charged extra for the whole set.

The Dictionary is intended to deal with the products of India—animal, vegetable, and mineral; each product being treated after a uniform plan, the paragraphs of which give the scientific, vernacular, and European names; habitat or source; history; properties and uses (both chemical and industrial); trade statistics; markets, &c. The work is arranged alphabetically according to scientific nomenclature, but commercial and important vernacular names are also given as cross references, so that little difficulty need be experienced in finding the account of a product even when its scientific name is unknown to the reader.

An important feature of the Dictionary consists in the fact that derived information is in every instance given under quotation marks, and with a reference to the original publication. Numerous contributors have, however, furnished the results of new discoveries and confirmed the vernacular names, so that the Dictionary is not only a complete compilation of published information, but has been brought abreast of the most recent inventions and discoveries.

Volume I contains the letters A and B, and consists of 559 royal octavo pages; Vol. II embraces the letter C in 689 pages; Vol. III contains the letters D, E, F and half of G. Vol. IV latter half of G to middle of L; and Vol. V contains the latter half of L to end of O; Vol. VI, (which will consist of four parts), Part I, contains letters P to R. The whole work will, it is expected, be completed in nine volumes (including Parts II to IV of Vol. VI) during the current year; but a tenth volume may also be issued, consisting of an Index to all the vernacular and other names contained in the Dictionary. The Index will practically be a Glossary of the vernacular and European names of the plants, animals and minerals of India, and as such will be a work of reference, which, it is hoped, may prove of considerable value.

PART VI.

Bills introduced into the Council of the Governor General for making
Laws and Regulations, or published under Rule 22.

GOVERNMENT OF INDIA.

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

The following Bill was introduced in the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 25th July, 1895:

NO. 14 OF 1895.

A Bill to explain the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, so far as relates to grants from the Crown.

WHEREAS doubts have arisen as to the extent and operation of the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, and it is expedient to remove such doubts; It is hereby enacted as follows:

Title, extent and commencement.

I. (1) This Act may be called the Crown Grants Act, 1895.

(2) It extends to the whole of British India; and

(3) It shall come into force at once.

2. (1) Nothing in the Transfer of Property Act, 1882, contained shall apply or be deemed ever to have applied to any grant or transfer of land or of any interest therein heretofore made or hereafter to be made by or on behalf of Her Majesty the Queen-Empress, her heirs or successors, or by or on behalf of the Secretary of State for India in Council to, or in favour of, any person whomsoever; but every such grant and transfer shall be construed and take effect as if the said Act had not been passed.

(2) All provisions, restrictions, conditions and limitations over contained in any such grant or transfer as aforesaid shall be valid and take effect according to their tenor, any rule of law or enactment of the Legislature to the contrary notwithstanding.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS.

THE Transfer of Property Act, 1882, sections 10—12, invalidates, with certain exceptions, all conditions for the forfeiture of the transferred property on alienation by the transferee and all limitations over consequent upon any such alienation or any insolvency of or attempted alienation by him. The Crown is not specifically mentioned in the Act, and it may be assumed that it was not designed to impose fetters of this description upon the discretion of the Crown, especially as to the creation of inalienable jaghirs in grants made for public services; but it has been thought better to set the question at rest by express legislation.

2. Upon a late occasion the Government of India were advised that it is not competent for the Crown to create an inalienable and impartible estate in the land comprised in any Crown grant, unless such land has heretofore descended by custom as an impartible Raj. The second sub-section of the Bill is intended to obviate this inconvenience, by providing that all Crown grants are to be construed according to their tenor, notwithstanding any rule of law which might otherwise affect their operation.

The 24th July, 1895.

Offg. Director of Bengal Surveys.

GENERAL DEPARTMENT.

NOTIFICATION—No. 2763.

The 8th August 1895.—In exercise of the powers conferred upon him by section 18, clause (1) of the Indian Factories Act, 1881, as amended by section 16 of Act XI of 1891, the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to make the following additions to, and alterations in, the Rules published under Notification No. 1315, dated the 30th April 1892:—

I. The following clauses are added to Rule 7:—

“7(a). When the main belts of any machinery have to be adjusted, the machinery must be stopped and must not be set in motion until such belts have been completely adjusted.

7(b). The following rules shall be observed when the minor belts of a machinery have to be adjusted:

(1) The workman who goes up to replace a belt should wear nothing but his loin cloth or tight trousers.

(2) All ladders used in replacing belts should be specially made and preserved for that work, and provided with hooks and spurs.

(3) As far as possible, all important pulleys should be provided with belt hangers.

(4) Only experienced men and those specially trained for the work should be allowed to replace fast running belts.

7(c). Every occupier of a factory shall regularly examine the belts and see that they are kept at proper tension.”

II. The following is substituted for Rule 30:—

“The periodical Returns I, II, III, prescribed by the Government of India in their Notification No. 428, dated the 25th March 1892, are to be submitted by occupiers of factories to District Magistrates, or, if the factory is situated in Calcutta, to the Special Inspector of Factories.”

DECLARATION—No. 2683.

The 10th August 1895.—Whereas it appears to the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal that land is required to be taken up by Government at the public expense for a public purpose, viz., for the quarters of the Head Master of the Zila School at Ranchi, pargana Khukhra, Zila Lohardaga, it is hereby declared that for the above purpose a piece of land measuring, more or less, 4 bighas, 9 cottas, 14 chitaks of standard measurement is required. It is bounded on the north by Ranchi Basti and Municipal Road; on the south by the Municipal Road and the Ranchi Boys' and Girls' School compound; on the east by the Municipal Road and the Ranchi Normal School compound; and on the west by the Basti of the same village.

In supersession of the Declaration No. 1586, dated the 26th April 1895, published at page 405, Part I of the Calcutta Gazette of the 1st May 1895, this declaration is made, under the provisions of section 6 of Act I of 1894, to all whom it may concern.

increased cultivation and improved drainage ague gradually disappeared, except from the eastern counties, which were not thoroughly drained till the present century. The disease has now, however, all but disappeared, and only lingers here and there in a few marshy places which have not been affected by the drainage operations. In 1809 a British army practically disappeared under the deadly influence of malaria in the marshes of Walchern. These marshes have now been drained, and fever is nearly unknown. In the early days of the settlement of the Carolinas malarial fevers were very prevalent and deadly, especially in the belt of rice growing country near the coast. As population and cultivation increased fevers diminished; but since the abolition of slavery after the war of 1861—64, large tracts of land have gone out of cultivation for want of labour, drainage has become obstructed, and fevers have again become common. I have seen large tracts which were once flourishing plantations reduced to sodden marsh, in which white men could no longer live.

11. These cases seem a sufficient reply to the question of the Hindu Patriot of 26th July 1894:—"Is there any one who is prepared to say that the connection between obstructed drainage and malaria has been conclusively established yet?" Indeed, the Hindu Patriot itself was for a long time the chief exponent of the theory that the one essential cause of malaria was obstructed drainage. In its issue of 19th December 1873, for instance, it says:—

"This big drain [in Sibpur] cannot possibly fail to strike any man as being the drainage channel of the village, carrying the periodical monsoon rainfall over the village through a culvert in the road to its outfall, the Hooghly, by means of a creek which runs along the southern boundary of the Botanic Gardens. This drain, as already observed, was filled up between April and June last, and the epidemic fever—true to the law which governs it, as we have repeatedly shown in these columns—broke out at the latter end of September following. We are aware that it is hard for our rulers, learned in the abstruse laws of nature, to swallow such a simple cause as this, explaining so important a phenomenon, which has for the last 14 years eluded the grasp of its own scientific officers. But whether our lamentations are heard or not, the very expression of them gives relief to our minds, and this is one excuse for recurring so often to the subject."

12. Several other papers at that time took the same view, which was very strongly held by the late Raja Digamber Mitter, c.s.i., and in consequence of their representations a Committee, of which Dr. Lethbridge was President, and Mr. J. Whitfield, c.e., Executive Engineer, Assistant Surgeon Amrito Lal Mozamdar, Babu Piari Mohan Mukerji, and Deputy Collector Hem Chandra Kur, members, was appointed. Their instructions were (Bengal Government, Sanitation No. 1628, dated 29th May 1877) "to examine Sibpur, Bally, and Connagar, the places mentioned in Rajah Digambar's memorandum, and see if they can find from their investigations there where there are any grounds for continuing the enquiry."

After a careful enquiry, which include a systematic survey "by a competent overseer of the Public Works Department," they arrived at the conclusion that as regards Sibpur

"it is physically impossible that the filling up of the Chowdhry's guruh can have caused any obstruction to the drainage" (paragraph 8).

As regards Bally they found that—

"There has been no obstruction, nor is it possible that there could be any" (paragraph 18).

And again—

"Every statement made regarding Bally having been found to be incorrect, it was considered unnecessary to make any enquiry into the prevalence of fever" (paragraph 23).

As regards Connagar they say—

"Since the main roads of the village run parallel to the drainage channels, no serious obstructions can be caused * * * and * * * except in a few minor instances no such obstruction existed" (paragraph 26).

Again—

"Although there may have been some obstruction caused by the bund, it is physically impossible, from the nature of the ground, that it could have been to any great extent" (paragraph 36).

13. It will thus be seen that the Committee do not say that obstructed drainage is not the cause of fever, but that in the particular instances which proper season, unless it is duly planted out, unless it has sufficient water and sufficient sunshine, it cannot exist. All these are in one sense causes, but they are secondary causes, all of which combined are powerless without the first essential, the provision of the seed. Yet the seed itself will come to nothing unless it meets with the secondary causes named. If sown on dry ground it withers away, if exposed to excess of water it rots, and so on, so that we require not only a seed as a condition sine qua non, but a host of other causes to bring this seed to its culmination of bearing fruit an hundredfold. This analogy applies exactly to the development of a large number of diseases. They depend on a specific cause, which may be compared to a seed; but this cannot grow unless the conditions of its environment are such as to furnish a soil in which it can flourish. In many cases, such as anthrax, tuberculosis, splenic fever, erysipelas, &c., this seed or germ has been isolated and demonstrated. In others, such as enteric fever, cholera, leprosy, and tetanus, the evidence, though sufficient to satisfy many, cannot as yet be said to have been completely accepted by the profession. In others, again, the specific cause has not yet been demonstrated; yet there is no doubt whatever that it exists. Take small-pox for instance. Everybody knows that a drop of matter from a small-pox postule will give small-pox if inoculated under the skin of an unprotected person. A drop of ordinary pus will have no such effect. Yet the specific pus of small-pox cannot be distinguished chemically, microscopically, or bacteriologically from ordinary pus. Measles, typhus fever, and other so-called zymotic diseases are all due to specific causes which have not yet been isolated. The plague is another, and it is now announced that Dr. Kitasato of Japan has succeeded in isolating its bacillus at Hongkong. None of these diseases can originate de novo. If the seed is not there, no amount of favourable secondary causes will produce them. Measles was unknown in the Fiji Islands till introduced by an imported case, when 20,000 persons perished.

8. It is now generally accepted by the medical profession that malaria is due to a specific cause, though some are not prepared to admit that it has as yet been demonstrated. The researches, however, of Laveran in Algeria, Marchiafava and Celli in Rome, Patrick Manson in China and elsewhere, Vandyke Carter in Bombay, Olser in Baltimore, Kaufmann at Ismalia and Cairo, Crombie in Calcutta, Councilman and others go to show that it is due to a specific bacillus (or rather plasmodium) present in the blood corpuscles. Whether this be true or not,—and bacteriology, though the latest of the medical sciences, is already so encyclopedic that medical men engaged in active practice have to accept or reject the conclusions of bacteriologists to a large extent on trust,—the consensus of medical opinion is, as I have stated, that malaria is due to some specific cause, and that in the absence of that cause neither poverty, nor exposure, nor chill, nor dampness from deficient drainage will produce it. Given the germ, however, all these act as powerful secondary causes in promoting its growth and extension.

9. We know that poor, badly kept seed will produce a poor crop; well-selected and carefully-kept seed a good crop. We know also that the inherent activity of the seeds of disease may be lessened or increased under certain conditions, and this has no doubt a distinct, though ill-defined, relation to the varying severity of epidemics. We know also that as the ultimate result of a field sown with good seed depends on the many secondary conditions already alluded to, so the result of the implantation of the seeds of disease will depend entirely on the conditions they meet with. If they find a congenial soil, they will flourish, the result being an epidemic; if they find no such soil, they also will wither away.

10. There can be no manner of doubt that one of the most favourable conditions for intensifying the malarial germ (whatever it may be) is a marshy and water-logged soil. But it is now generally recognised that such a soil will not generate fever unless the specific cause is there, and this accounts for the absence of fever in many such places. There is also no manner of doubt that when fever prevails in such localities, thorough drainage is the only efficient remedy. England affords an excellent illustration of both these points. In the days of the Tudors ague was prevalent all over the country, then sparsely peopled and cultivated, but especially so in the eastern counties, which are very flat, marshy, and water-logged. NOTIFICATION.

No. 3295S. The 13th August 1895.—The following report by Surgeon-Colonel R. Harvey on the causation of malarial fever is published for general information.

H. H. RISLEY,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 8267, dated Calcutta, the 18th September 1894.

From—SURGEON-COLONEL R. HARVEY, M.D., D.S.O., Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

WITH reference to your No. 3245S., dated 10th August, forwarding copy of the Sanitary Drainage Bill, &c., for favour of opinion, I have the honour to state that, having carefully gone through the Bill and considered all the criticisms on it and on His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor's speech at Dacca, explaining its objects and reasons, I have come to the following conclusions.

That the Bill itself being of a purely technical nature, it is beyond my province or capacity to criticise it, the more so as it does not itself contain any medical facts or arguments with which I could deal.

3. These facts and arguments are contained in His Honour's speech and in the criticisms on the speech and on the reasons which are supposed to justify or to condemn the Bill, and it is on these that I understand my opinion is required. They involve the whole question as to the causation of so-called malarious fevers, and call for an explanation of various differences or supposed differences of medical opinion on that subject.

4. Briefly put, the chief arguments in favour of the Bill are that malarious fevers are as a matter of fact notoriously prevalent and unusually fatal in marshy and water-logged tracts, where defective or obstructed drainage is met with; that in certain districts of Bengal where these conditions obtain they are so prevalent and fatal as to counteract the natural growth of population, and that the most, or indeed the only, effective remedy for such tracts is drainage.

5. It is maintained on the other hand that the cause of malaria is not obstruction to drainage, but poverty;—and numerous medical opinions are cited in proof of this;—that such obstructions as exist are mainly due to railways and roads; that the Act is unnecessary, because such drainage as is required should be provided for by District Boards from the Road Cess Fund; that the people are too poor to pay for costly projects the utility of which is doubtful; and that what money is available should be applied to the more important object of an improved water-supply.

6. The main contention is, however, the first, viz., that malarial fever is not due to obstructed drainage, but to poverty, and much is made in many of the Indian newspapers of the supposed differences of opinion among medical men on this point. So far as I can see, however, there is no such difference of opinion, and the views held by the supporters and opponents of the Bill are perfectly compatible with each other, so far as the causes of malaria are concerned.

7. In most questions of causation many factors are concerned, some of which, though of great importance, are mere accidents, and not essentials. Besides the real, true, or primary cause, we have all sorts of secondary causes, predisposing causes, exciting causes, and causes which may augment or diminish or otherwise modify the action of the true cause. This is specially the case with malaria and its causes, and it is to the ascription of undue importance to secondary issues that much of the confusion of thought and opinion is due. A concrete example may bring this out and serve as an illustration of the complexity of conditions which govern the genesis of malaria. What are the causes of a field of rice ready for the sickle? Every one can see that they are many and complex. Unless the soil is carefully prepared at the

they were commissioned to examine, the drainage had not been obstructed, a very different thing. Indeed, in paragraph 2 they say:—"We are not prepared to say that increased dampness is not one of the causes of the fever." *

* "There is a popular idea that there is increased dampness in the villages around Calcutta."

14. That Dr. Lethbridge was of a totally different opinion to that now attributed to him is shown by the following extract from his No. 594M.I., dated 15th May 1877, when he was Officiating Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal:—

"It was shown by the Commission of 1864 that the fever then prevailing was of malarious origin, and that the chief factor in its development was dampness of the subsoil. With one or two exceptions all subsequent enquirers (and there have been many) are of the same opinion, and for all practical purposes these two points are now established. It is when we come to account for the unusual dampness that we find a very considerable difference of opinion."

"While I refrain from discussing the question here. I ought to mention that I cannot altogether accept Rajah Digambar Mitter's view of the dampness of the village subsoil itself being the sole and only cause of the fever, or that this has altogether been brought about by roads and railways, yet I am so profoundly impressed with the evidence that goes to show that long continued dampness at a time of the year when the soil ought to be rapidly drained of its excess of moisture is the chief cause of unhealthiness, that I accept the Rajah's recommendations for facilitating the drainage of villages as being worthy of serious consideration."

15. Yet Dr. Lethbridge is now claimed as holding the opinion that poverty and not obstructed drainage, is the chief cause of fever, and the report of his Committee, which was severely criticised at the time, is held to take the same view. Yet poverty is not so much as mentioned in the report unless "the poor condition of the people," mentioned by Dr. Greene (paragraph 31) refers to poverty; I believe it refers to physique. This one statement of Dr. Greene's is used by the Hindu Patriot to make him also an upholder of the causation-by-poverty theory, whereas he was one of the strongest up-holders of the causation-by-obstructed-drainage theory.

16. Poverty is to fever what sunshine or rainfall or proper tillage is to the hypothetical rice-field; that is a purely secondary cause. It cannot of itself—though carried to starvation point—produce an ague, unless the ague seed is there. That by diminishing vital stamina, and the power of resistance to disease, it renders the poor much more obnoxious to the attacks of fever and much more likely to die of it, is admitted by all. Eliminate poverty, so that people can be well fed, well clothed, well housed; their power of resisting malaria will be immensely increased: eliminate malaria, their powers of work will be increased and poverty more or less eliminated. The two things act and react on each other, the poverty making them more liable to fever, the fever diminishing their wage earning power. The poverty cannot be got rid of by legislative action, the malaria can.

Much stress is laid on the opinion of Colonel Haig and Dr. Saunders as to poverty, and not obstructed drainage, being the cause of the prevalence of fever; but the opinions of both officers really amount to no more than the admitted fact just stated. Colonel Haig's words are—

"The excessive mortality must be due to the failing stamina of the people generally, to a degeneration and loss of vital energy which render them less capable of resisting the morbid influences to which they have always been exposed."

The italics are mine. Dr. Saunders—

"Ascertained by actual personal enquiry * * * that their means of subsistence were wholly inadequate to maintain them in such a hygienic condition as to enable them to successfully resist the existing causes of disease."

The italics are again mine. I entirely agree with the opinions of both officers, so does His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, so I venture to say does every medical man. But the fact that poverty intensifies the action of malaria is no proof that it can cause it. Every country has many poor, many countries have no malaria.

17. It is clear then that, so far as Dr. Lethbridge and his Committee, Dr. Greene, Colonel Haig, and Dr. Saunders are concerned, their opinions have no validity as arguments against the Sanitary Drainage Bill, and that they have in fact been given an interpretation which they do not warrant. I have been unable to trace Dr. Lyons' or his opinion, he is probably Surgeon-Major Lyons of the 28th and 17th N. I., who retired in 1886.

18. Obstructed drainage is at best only a secondary cause of malaria, and could cause no fever unless the germs were there. It merely acts, when it acts, by providing a suitable nidus in which these germs can flourish; but it acts in this way so frequently, and the germs are so widely distributed in certain countries, that in popular language it is said to be the cause, and the expression is legitimate enough. No one except the late Rajah Digambar Mitter and the Hindu Patriot of the time of Dr. Lethbridge's Committee, asserts that it is the sole cause of malaria.

In the instructions to Dr. Lethbridge for the guidance of his Committee, drawn up by Mr. H. J. S. Cotton, this fact is very clearly brought out—

"The Rajah maintains that by the construction of roads and embankments the natural drainage of the country has been obstructed, and that this is the sole and only cause of the fever. But it has been demonstrated again and again that the fever has prevailed in villages and in parts of the country with which roads and railways can have had no possible concern. On the other hand it has frequently been shown that the Rajah is right to a very great extent, and that artificial obstructions have on many cases occasioned and have in others aggravated the outbreak of fever" (paragraph 2).

"There is little doubt that the epidemic fever is of malarious origin, and that while the chief factor in its development is unusual dampness in the subsoil, this dampness is created by defective drainage. The Lieutenant-Governor observes that while accepting this view you confine yourself in your letter to recommending action in the direction of increased and improved drainage. If the Committee, you write, while enquiring into the cause of the excessive dampness could at the same time suggest reasonable means for removing it by utilising the natural drainage of the country, they would, even if they failed to elucidate the cause, confer great benefits to the people, and you go on to say that you would gladly see the services of the Committee utilised in the organisation of a general drainage scheme" (paragraph 3).

19. In the face of this statement it is hard to see how Dr. Lethbridge can be cited as a witness against the present Bill. His opinions have been perfectly consistent throughout, and his Committee, while disproving the existence of particular alleged obstructions, expressly reserved themselves against such use as is now being made of their report, by saying that increased dampness might be a cause of the fever, and that opinion was in favour of the fact that dampness had increased.

20. A very excellent illustration of excessive development of fever clearly due to obstructed drainage is given in the report of the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, for 1877, pages 6 and 7:—

"The district of Dinajpur has long had an unenviable reputation for unhealthiness caused almost entirely by fever. * * * When fifteen out of seventeen adult Europeans had to leave the station in a single year, broken by repeated attacks of fever, and official business could hardly be carried on, a Committee was appointed by Government to report on the causes of this great unhealthiness and suggest means for improving the station.

"The investigations of the Committee brought out the following facts:—A terrible amount of constant sickness and a very high death-rate. An examination of nearly 1,000 individuals shows that 74·45 per cent. of the inhabitants of all classes were in shattered health, while 53 per cent. had marked enlargement of the spleen. Great pains have been bestowed on registration, and the district was declared by Dr. Coates in last year's Sanitary Report to be the best registered in Bengal. Deaths of infants often escape registration, however, and so far the total deaths registered are short of the actual mortality. It was found, however, that the registered death-rate of the Municipality was 42 per 1,000, nearly double the death-rate of London, while the police died at the rate of 46 and the prisoners in jail at 74·6 per 1,000 per annum. The Municipality lies between a river and a smaller stream, which, after receiving a large part of the town drainage, falls into the former below the town. The river rises in some extensive marshes to the north and brings down in the rains large quantities of decomposing vegetable débris. The smaller stream receives the accumulated surface washings and much of the sewage of the town. It is partly silted up, and, except during the rains, is little more than a succession of detached pools of foul water. During the heavy floods of the rainy season it is swollen to a large size, but the water is prevented from running off by the river floods, which not only head it up and cause it to inundate the town and station, but themselves pour up the stream, bringing large quantities of the vegetable matter abovementioned. The result is temporary stagnation, the deposit of large quantities of foul matter, and the general sturation of the soil. The flood gradually subsides, leaving a slimy and indescribably offensive deposit behind it; and this process is renewed perhaps three or four times in the season, the waters ebbing and flowing and stagnating and depositing their filth. The stream in question has always been considered the chief cause of the unhealthiness of the town. Two years ago an attempt was made to divert the greater part of its water into a dead river to the east and to keep out the river floods. For this purpose three or four dams were made, the largest across the junction of the stream and river below the town. Exceptionally high floods, however, overtopped the dam; the others were also inefficient; and the only effect of the operations intended to improve the drainage was to retain the flood waters unusually long and cause greater scakage than ever. This was aggravated by an exceptionally heavy and ill-distributed rainfall, and followed on the subsidence of the floods by an all but universal development of fever, very few persons escaping. The evidence that the prevalence of fever and the amount of rainfall and flooding are directly connected was further strengthened when it was found that a large decrease in the registered mortality in 1875 as compared with 1874 (great attention having been paid to registration in both years) was coincident with a rainfall much below the average, and shorter and less widespread floods; and still more so by the fact that the diminished sickness of that year was confined to the native town, while the European residents living south of the town, near the junction of the two streams, and exposed to the partial floods which did occur, were as unhealthy as usual."

21. The Committee recommended a number of general sanitary reforms, such as improved conservancy, better means of disposing of the dead, &c., but their main reliance for the improvement of the public health was a new drainage scheme by which the river was completely dammed up, and the waters of the small stream with the town drainage carried by a new cut seven miles lower down the river. The project was put in hand shortly afterwards, and was practically completed in 1879. I am informed by Mr. Nolan, Commissioner of the Division, that the results have been excellent on the whole, and that the general health has greatly improved.

Another most interesting illustration of the effect of obstructed drainage from the silting up of rivers in producing epidemic fever is given at pages 57 and 58 of the same report, by Dr. Crombie, of Dacca, but need not be noticed in detail, since the instances already given suffice and the fact is notorious.

22. To recapitulate briefly, this memorandum claims to prove—

- (1) that malaria is due to a specific cause—the plasmodium of Laveran;
- (2) that without the presence of the specific cause no insanitary conditions, poverty or obstructed drainage, can originate malaria;
- (3) that given its presence all insanitary conditions, poverty, &c., make people more obnoxious to its attacks by diminishing their vital powers of resistance;
- (4) that a damp and water-logged soil, whether from defective or obstructed drainage, forms a most favourable nidus for the development and intensification of the germ;
- (5) that this can be remedied by drainage;
- (6) that there is no real difference of opinion among medical men on the above points; and
- (7) that the opinions of the medical men and others, who have been cited by the opponents of the Bill as witnesses against it, do not bear the interpretation put on them, and are really arguments in favour of the Bill.

23. I have limited myself to the main issue, and will only say regarding the contention that a good water-supply is much more essential than any drainage scheme; that both are most desirable, and that when both are needed, but money is only available for one, each case must be decided on its merits. In the case of Dinajpur, drainage was emphatically the one thing needful, and I might say that in many sodden and water-logged soils a good water-supply is impossible without preliminary drainage.

24. I have submitted this note for criticism to a number of medical officers serving in Bengal, and append their remarks. They agree in the main with the conclusions above expressed. I also append some interesting details as to the past and present history of malarial fever in Walcheren and in America, referred to in paragraph 10.

APPENDIX A.

OPINIONS OF MEDICAL OFFICERS.

BDE.-SURG.-LIEUT.-COL. H. PURVES, Civil Surgeon, Howrah.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge receipt of your No. 7244 of the 20th instant, with printed paper, dated the 17th idem, in regard to the question of the causation of malaria.

In reply, I beg to state that I quite agree with you that poverty has nothing to do with the origin of malaria; it may follow as the result of such fever, but is certainly not the cause. "Maclean" defines malaria as "an earthborn poison generated in soils, the energies of which are not expended on the growth and sustenance of healthy vegetation," and adds that "by almost universal consent this poison is the cause of all the types of intermittent and remittent fevers commonly called malarial."

In my own experience I have found that the malarial poison is no respecter of persons; it attacks rich and poor, young and old, strong and weak.

Had poverty anything to do with the genesis of malaria, we would expect to find cases of ague and enlarged spleen common in all tracts where famine prevailed and in the slums of towns where poverty is rife, independently of whether the surrounding country was malarious or not, but such is not found to be the case.

BDE.-SURGN.-LIEUT.-COL. D. D. CUNNINGHAM, M.B., F.R.S., C.I.E., Professor of Physiology, Medical College, Calcutta.

IN reply to your No. 7237, dated 20th August 1894, I have the honour to state that I entirely concur with you in holding that malarial fevers must be due to some specific cause, and that the idea that poverty is capable of acting as such arises from confounding coincidences with causes.

SURGN.-LIEUT.-COL. J. F. P. McCONNELL, M.D., F.R.C.P., Professor of Materia Medica.

WITH reference to your No. 7236 of the 20th instant, and enclosures, I have the honour to state that I concur entirely with the remarks you have made on the relation of malaria to drainage, and that your memorandum on the subject is so complete and concise that any further observation from myself would, I consider, be quite superfluous.

SURGN.-LIEUT.-COL. A. CROMBIE, M.D., Superintendent, Presidency General Hospital.

I ENTIRELY agree with Dr. Harvey in the opinions expressed in the accompanying memorandum with regard to the effective cause of malaria and the relation which poverty, obstructed drainage, and water-logging of the soil bear to its manifestation. I have satisfied myself that the plasmodium (more properly amoeba) of Laveran is the essential organism giving rise to every case of malarial fever, that the different forms of malarial fever, quotidian, tertian and quartan, are each due to a different variety of the malarial amoeba, and that these varieties are identical with those occurring in Europe, and can be distinguished from each other under the microscope by characteristic differences which are the same for each variety in Bengal and in Europe. Poverty may certainly increase the liability of the population of a malarious district, that is, a district the conditions of which are favourable to the growth and multiplication of the malarial organism, to attacks of malarial fever, but will not in itself and by itself and in the absence of the malarial amoeba give rise to a single case of illness of that nature. The disease which follows on the tracks of poverty—and is almost an essential sequel of poverty and starvation—is not malarial but relapsing fever, a fever which has been found by Vandyke Carter and others to be also due to a bacteriological organism entirely different from that of malaria, being a spirillum, and not an amoeba.

I have little to add to what Dr. Harvey says on the subject of obstructed drainage. I think there can be little doubt but that in certain very limited areas in Bengal, in the immediate neighbourhood of railways especially, considerable interference with natural surface drainage has been caused by public works of these kinds. But their influence can only be of the smallest extent, and could be remedied by increasing the number of culverts and waterways. But the malarial condition of the country at large, in so far as it is induced by increased dampness of the soil, is related to causes acting in a much larger way, and especially by the inevitable silting of rivers and consequent water-logging the soil generally. I saw unquestionable evidences of this in Eastern Bengal, where there were no public works of this kind. How far it will be possible to deal with these larger causes under the Bill is a question which I am not called upon to discuss. The giving of a good water-supply may often be feasible when a large drainage scheme is inadmissible; but so long as the state of the soil is such as to favour the life of the malarial organism, drainage will always be essential to the health of the people as the only known means of getting rid of these conditions.

SURGN.-LIEUT.-COL. E. G. RUSSELL, M.B., B.SC., Civil Surgeon of Dacca.

Letter dated the 17th August 1894, from the Inspector-General of Civil Hospitals, Bengal, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department.

In reply to your No. 7238 of 20th instant, giving cover to marginally noted document, I have the honour to intimate that I entirely concur in the remarks made in the document referred to.

SURGN.-LIEUT.-COL. GORDON PRICE, M.D., Offg. Civil Surgeon of Murshidabad.

With reference to your No. 7245, dated the 20th instant, I have the honour to state that I entirely concur with the remarks made in your letter to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal dated the 17th of August 1894.

SURGEON-MAJOR G. BOMFORD, M.D., Principal, Medical College.

In reply to your docket No. 7241, dated the 20th of August, in which you ask for my opinion on the subject of sanitary drainage, I have the honour to offer the following observations.

Taking the propositions laid down in paragraph 22 of your letter to the Government in order, I may say that—

(1) I agree that malaria is due to a specific cause, though I am not prepared to accept the plasmodium of Laveran or any of the other appearances described by other writers as that cause. On the other hand, I do not think that there is sufficient proof that the great mortality that occurs in certain districts and in certain years is always the result of malaria.

(2) I agree that malaria is not the result of poverty, and as evidence of this I would instance my own experience in the North Arcot district of Madras in 1877-78, where there was an almost incredible degree of poverty, but very little malaria. On the other hand, malaria is undoubtedly a cause of poverty, by bringing about a condition of chronic ill-health; and poverty in its turn, from whatever cause it may arise, brings about a great increase in the mortality, and may have more to do with the excessive mortality in certain years than malaria. If it could be shown that the Drainage Bill is likely to still further impoverish the lower strata of the people, nobody would, I presume, advocate its adoption.

(3) About the third proposition I am doubtful, as I do not think that there is any sufficient evidence that malarial disease is influenced in any way by ordinary sanitary measures apart from those which may be supposed to act directly upon the cause of malaria. Malaria does not seem to be a consequence of ordinary filth; on the contrary in dirty places, in cities for instance, malaria seems to be rather crowded out, and it is in jungles, which, apart from malaria, are not insanitary places, that we find it in its worst forms. In places where malaria is rife we do not find that the rich man with his filters and other sanitary precautions has a much greater immunity from attack than his poorer brethren, who can take no particular precautions.

(4) There is evidence that irrigated land has a high fever mortality, whatever this "fever mortality" may really be,—vide on this point the report of the Sanitary Commissioner of the North-Western Provinces for 1887, and also that the mortality from fevers in any particular district of the North-Western Provinces varies as a rule directly as the rainfall. On the other hand, the Sanitary Commissioner for Bengal was forced to admit in his report for 1891 that fever had been unusually prevalent in a year of deficient rainfall, and his explanation of this apparent paradox has some bearing on the present enquiry, because it raises the question whether—

(5) Drainage might not, under certain circumstances, actually increase the mortality. If by drainage we bring about the condition described by him as the result of deficient rainfall, it might do harm instead of good. Supposing that malaria acts rather by impoverishing and enfeebling the people and is not so much a direct cause of mortality, and for this view there is considerable evidence in what we see every day in our hospitals, then the immediate effect of drainage might be to bring about conditions which would act adversely upon the already impoverished and enfeebled people, although eventually it might by checking malaria improve the general health, and so enable a new generation of people to withstand the evil effects of both floods and droughts.

(6) I do not think that there is any real difference among medical men on these matters, but few have made a special study of these questions and know how complicated they are, especially in India.

(7) To be sure that the letter really expresses the views of the medical officers mentioned, one would have to see their statements in full, and to understand the circumstances under which they were made. The Lyons referred to is probably Surgeon-Major Lyons of the Bengal Medical Service, who retired about 1886, and who used to write a good deal in the medical papers in the earlier years of his service.

In conclusion I would suggest that it would be well to ascertain the result of drainage experiments in other provinces, and then to begin by making cautious experiments in Bengal in places where the general health is known to have deteriorated since the closing of natural channels. Places that have been always water-logged should be left alone, at least until the success of these first experiments is assured. This is what I understand the Government intends to do, and all I would say is that they must not be surprised if such drainage experiments do not appear to have such good results as they anticipate.

SURGEON-MAJOR J. B. GIBBONS, Superintendent, Campbell Medical School and Hospital.

WITH reference to your No. 7242, of the 20th instant, enclosing copy of your letter to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department, I have the honour to state that I concur generally with the opinions which you express.

With regard to the statement that malaria is due to a specific cause I agree, but I am not satisfied with the proofs hitherto put forward that the bodies found in the blood, and which Laveran and other observers state are living organisms, have any causal relation to the disease, or more probably group of diseases, to which we give the name malaria. This is, however, a point of no value in connection with the important question of the relationship between malaria and a water-logged soil. It is, I believe, proved by the experience of observers in all countries where malaria exists that excessive moisture, especially when the water is stagnant, leads to the development of a virulent type of malarial fever. The instances mentioned by you in paragraph 10 could, if necessary, be multiplied by examples taken from every tropical and sub-tropical part of the world. But malaria is not the only disease connected with a water-logged soil. Dysentery and diarrhoea are also favoured by this condition. Although many observers deny the direct causal relationship between excessive soil moisture and these diseases, all are agreed that a wet soil by determining sudden and great variations in the temperature of the atmosphere favours their development. These two diseases are very prevalent in the water-logged districts of Bengal, and not only lead to a large mortality, but also to much chronic unhealth.

I altogether agree with your remarks in paragraph 23. I would only add that where the question arises of choosing between drainage and a water-supply, I would certainly give the preference to the drainage, for I hold that a comprehensive system of drainage by preventing the accumulation of stagnant water will necessarily improve the drinking supply of the district.

SURGEON-CAPTAIN A. LEAHY, M.D., Civil Surgeon, 24-Parganas, Alipore.

I HAVE the honour to acknowledge the receipt of a copy of your memorandum on the Sanitary Drainage Bill, forwarded to this office with your No. 7240, dated Calcutta, 20th August 1894.

2. I now annex for your information a few remarks I have taken the liberty of making in the form of a note.

It is easier for me to embody the few remarks I have to make into the form of a note. I think the memorandum puts the medical opinion regarding the views which have been advanced against the Sanitary Drainage Bill in clear and concise language which leaves little to be desired. In paragraph 7 Surgeon-Colonel Harvey carefully explains the differences which exist between primary and secondary causes, and shows how the want of carefully discriminating between these two classes of causes must lead to errors in judgment. I entirely concur with the résumé of the relation of the Plasmodium of Laveran and of the Roman school to the production of the malarial condition in the individual, as laid down by Surgeon-Colonel Harvey in paragraph 8 of his memorandum. I further concur generally with most of the other parts of the memorandum. Regarding the contention of the opponents of the Sanitary Drainage Bill that malarial fever is not due to obstructed drainage, but to poverty, I entirely disagree, and desire to place upon record the following observation. A conversation I had with Professor D. D. Cunningham, F.R.S., recalled to my memory my experiences as a medical officer among the poor in Persia and Turkish Arabia. Let me take, for instance, the latter country and its inhabitants. There are perhaps few places in India where the people as a whole suffer more from poverty than do the Arabs, who constitute the nomad desert tribes. Yet a pretty extensive experience of them from a medical point of view has led me to the conclusion that malaria and malarial fevers are almost unknown among them. This singular exemption from malaria and its effects cannot be attributed to poverty, because to those who know the Arabs that mythical cause is only too plainly present among them. (Many of the Arab tribes exist for weeks and weeks on nothing but dates and water.) Secondly, it cannot be said to be owing to a pure water-supply, for the people take water with them for drinking purposes from each town or village, large or small, through which they may happen to pass in the course of their wandering, and in many of these places the water is polluted and impure to a degree. To what, then, is such immunity due? I believe it is due to the fact that the Arabs are not subjected to the effects of bad drainage, that they do not inhabit water-logged tracts of country. The desert in which they live is dry, the soil porous and so sparsely populated that drainage is neither possible nor necessary. This immunity from the poisonous effects of malaria, however, in the case of the Arab is not due to any individual peculiarity; for when any of the tribes come into the city of Bagdad, and take up their residence in spots, the drainage of which is notoriously bad, they suffer from malarial fever in the same way as everyone else. My belief is that it is the absence of proper drainage, not the presence of poverty, which is the great cause of malarial fever. But I do not for one moment deny that poverty may act as a predisposing cause in the same manner in which anything that lowers vitality, and therefore lessens the resisting power of the individual, will act as a predisposing cause to malaria and many other diseases. The statement or belief that poverty per se can create malaria is illogical in the extreme, for all scientific research goes far towards proving the cause of malaria to be a specific germ, which will flourish and multiply under certain conditions, of which the most important is bad or indifferent drainage, but which will under more or less perfect sanitary conditions cease to live. The world-famed instance of the drainage of the Roman Campagna forcibly illustrates this fact. In conclusion I may refer to the unhealthy condition of the Barasat subdivision of this province, which I recently made the subject of a report to you. I said — "Barasat is notoriously unhealthy, and during the rainy season fever and dysentery almost decimate the population. The history of this unhealthiness is perhaps somewhat interesting. Several years ago many European officials and landed native gentry lived in Barasat, and the health of the place was in those times good. I am informed its unhealthiness began from the time that two large ditches or canal drains, which ran through Barasat, almost due north and south, were allowed to silt up and to become blocked. It is stated at the time when Barasat was healthy these drains were carefully kept patent, but that on the departure of the various officials no further care was exercised regarding them, and they became blocked. This defective drainage is believed to be the cause of the present unhealthy condition of Barasat, which has now become so notorious that no natives, except those who are compelled to live there, will stay in the place." If it was desirable I could quote other equally well-known instances where obstruction to the drainage of land has been followed by marked deterioration in the health of its inhabitants from the prevalence of malarial fever. In rural tracts in this province, where, owing to the large extent of country inhabited by great numbers of people, scattered over it in villages and collection of villages, it is probably quite impossible to provide them with water rendered pure by large and expensive systems of water-works. The majority of such people in the rural areas derive their supply of drinking water from wells and rivulets. In these cases bad and indifferent drainage means the contamination of such water, and it must be clear to all if the drainage of the land is improved, the result will be a purer water-supply for the consumption of the inhabitants. Thus it appears to me to be merely begging the question to assert, as has been done, that the outbursts of malarial fever in places such as Barasat are to be attributed to a polluted water-supply. Of the two insanitary factors impure water-supply and bad drainage, the first undoubtedly owes its existence to the second. It is in fact an instance of cause and result, and if by improving the drainage of a district, where the drinking water is largely derived from wells, we render that water purer and thus prevent it being the means of conveying the poison of malaria into the systems of those who drink it, it is, I take it, most certainly our duty to attack the bad drainage as the fons et origo mali.

SURGEON-CAPTAIN H. W. PILGRIM, M.B., Offg. 1st Resident Surgeon, Presidency General Hospital.

I HAVE the honour to state, in answer to your memorandum No. 7243, dated 20th August, forwarding a report of yours to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department, that I entirely concur with the opinions you express on the etiology of malarial fevers. Moreover, I think that your exposition of the subject is now-a-days in accordance with the views held by nearly all medical men, both in this country and elsewhere. I do not think that any scientist would seriously state that poverty is the primary cause of malarial fevers. While fully believing that malarial fevers are due to a specific cause, I do not think that the researches referred to in your paper establish beyond all doubt that the Plasmodium of Laveran is the etiological factor. Just in the same way as the specific cause has not, in my opinion, been exactly demonstrated, so too I do not think we know all the exact conditions of soil which are essential for the development of the organism or organisms. No doubt a damp and water-logged condition of the soil seems to be the most common feature of soils where malarial fevers most prevail; but malarial fevers also prevail in connection with soils in which the conditions are the very reverse of the above, viz. in chalky and granite soils that are dry and well drained. While recognising these difficulties, I think that the effect of drainage and cultivation in reducing the prevalence of malarial fevers is admittedly well marked, and we are therefore bound to advocate the drainage and cultivation of all lands, with a view to removing one of the most important secondary causes of malaria.

SURGEON-CAPTAIN C. E. SUNDER, M.B., B.S., Offg. Resident Surgeon, Eden Hospital.

WITH reference to your No. 7239, I have the honour to express my full concurrence with the remarks in your letter, dated 17th August 1894, to the Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Municipal Department. When writing about the heavy mortality from fevers in Purnea district I adduced poverty not as a cause of malarial fevers, but as conducing to a heavy death-rate from them. I still do not consider that Laveran's plasmodium malarie has been definitely proved to be the cause of malarial fevers. As the specific cause of a definite disease it seems to me to be in much the same position as one acquitted with a verdict of "not proven." But this has no bearing on the question of drainage and its effects on malarial diseases. In the light of history and of observation it is undoubted that drainage has a beneficial effect on malarial areas. Whilst I was at Purnea it would have been premature to offer an opinion, but I am much mistaken if the branch line from Katihar station, Assam-Bihar State Railway, to Kishanganj, bounded as it is, will not tend to water-log the Kishanganj subdivision and so increase malarial fevers there.

The effect was partial last year. This is an example of the opposite effect to that aimed at in the Bill; but I think that, if my suspicion be justified, it will tend to strengthen the opinion on which the Bill is founded.

DR. W. J. SIMPSON, M.D., Health Officer to the Corporation of Calcutta.

WITH regard to the memorandum in connection with the Drainage Bill and the request that I should state my opinion thereon, I have the honour to inform you that I am not in a position to give an opinion. As far as I am able to judge regarding the utility or otherwise of a Drainage Bill for Bengal, I have seen no marshalling of facts indicating that such a Bill is absolutely necessary. I am inclined to think that investigation in the form of a Commission is first needed to ascertain whether the deaths which are attributed to fevers all over Bengal are in reality due to fever. With the present method of collecting death statistics and classification of the causes of death, it is quite impossible to have anything else than an appalling number of deaths attributed to fever because there is no other heading under which they can well be placed. But this in no way proves that the people of Bengal are dying from a disease which will be remedied by costly drainages. To my mind enquiry is needed, and after that people will be in a position to say whether a Drainage Bill of the character proposed is necessary, and if necessary, in what districts.

APPENDIX B.

Note on Malarial fever in Walcheren and in America (see paragraph 10).

"HOLLAND is still the most malarious region of Northern Europe; although, from the progress of drainage and cultivation, improvements in the water-supply and in the dwellings of the middle and lower classes, and the general advance in social well-being, the health of the population has improved immensely during the present century" (p. 146). *

"The nature of the causes of the disease may be inferred from the measures that have been found to improve the health of the country. Let us take as an example the town of Middleburg, the capital of Zeeland, situated in Walcheren. Here a steady diminution in the fever mortality has been going on throughout this century. Dr. de Man has constructed a table from the death registers of the Municipality, showing the number of deaths from various diseases for the ninety years 1792—1881. I extract the figures relating to intermittent fevers during that period:—

Decennial periods.	Deaths from intermittent fevers.
1792—1801	... 305
1802—1811	... 534
1812—1821	... 404
1822—1831	... 304
1832—1841	... 230
1842—1851	... 211
1852—1861	... 168
1862—1871	... 88
1872—1881	... 62

"In this table the population (at present actually 16,000) has been reduced to a constant mean of 10,000. There were only seven deaths from endemic fevers in each of the years 1879 and 1881.

"This great improvement is ascribed by de Man to the means taken to prevent the admixture of sea water with the fresh water of the canals and the alternate submersion and uncovering of the soil by the flux and reflux of the tide, and to the better drainage of the soil, the prevention of the impurities of the latrines passing into the canals, the better construction of houses, the paving of streets, and finally to the improved method of treating these fevers (Annales d'hygiène, pub., May 1883)" (p. 148).

"The Walcheren expedition of 1809 is one which exhibited in a manner, and to a degree seldom met with, at least in temperate regions, the dire influence of malaria under certain conditions. The leading points connected with this expedition, as narrated by Sir Gilbert Blane, are these:—The troops sailed from the Downs on the 28th July 1809, landed in Walcheren and North and South Beveland on the 31st July and the 1st August. Flushing was invested on the 1st August, and capitulated on the 15th of the same month. In the beginning of September the islands of North and South Beveland were evacuated, and that portion of the army which occupied them returned to England, leaving about 18,000 men to garrison Walcheren. More than one-half of these died, or were sent back to England on account of sickness, in the course of the three following months, and the island was finally evacuated on the 23rd of December 1809. The admissions into hospital between the 21st August and the 18th of November amounted to 26,846, including relapses, and the whole number of sick, including a small number of wounded, conveyed from thence to England between the 21st August and the 16th December, amounted to 12,863, and many instances occurred, in the case of those who returned to England apparently in health, in whom the endemic disease of Zealand appeared after the slight fatigue of a march. The disease did not show itself among the soldiers during the first month of their residence in Holland." Geographical Pathology, by Andrew Davidson, M.D., F.R.C.P., Ed., 1892—(p. 150.)

"The remarkable increase which has occurred in the pernicious remittent fevers (febris remittens hæmorrhagica) within the last ten or twenty years in the Southern States of the Union is referred to by Norcom as follows:—'Before the war the Southern States were in a high state of cultivation and the lands thoroughly drained; hence the malignant forms of malarial disease as a general rule were not known, except in very low, badly-drained swamp lands. Within the past eight years (written in 1874), owing to so much land lying waste, defective drainage, and the general insanitary condition of the country, the malarial poison has acted with intense virulence, and caused the disease we are now considering.' The same opinion is expressed by Green, by observers in Georgia, and by others." Handbook of Geographical and Historical Pathology, by Dr. August Hirsch, 1883 (p. 275).

1. An undivided three equal sixteenth part or share of and in No. 12, Mollunga Lane, in the Town of Calcutta, a brick-built upper-roomed dwelling-house and premises and the land appertaining thereto, and also an undivided one equal eighth part or share of and in a brick-built upper-roomed dwelling-house called and known as No. 11, Mollunga Lane, Calcutta, both of which said premises now form one block, and contain by estimation 6 cottahs and 11 chitaks of land, more or less, included in Holding No. 324, Block No. 13, South Division, and are bounded on the north by Mollunga Bye-lane, on the south partly by No. 13, Mollunga Lane, and partly by the dwelling-house of Doorja Churn Soor, on the east by Mollunga Lane, and on the west by No. 10, Mollunga Lane.

Under the decree in suit No. 297 of 1879, the purchaser will be entitled to the value of the last-mentioned share. Mode in which Managers are to apply income of Pension Fund.

5. All income arising from the Pension Fund and paid to the Managers under the provisions of this scheme shall be applied by them in accordance with the following provisions, that is to say:—

(a) In the first place, the Managers shall pay out of the said income to each of the persons whose names, addresses and descriptions are set forth in the first and second columns of the Schedule hereto (such persons being hereinafter referred to as "the original pensioners"), a pension of such an amount and payable at such times as is shewn by the particulars set opposite the name of such original pensioner in the third column of the said Schedule during his life, or until he shall, in the opinion of the Managers, have been guilty of such misconduct as to disentitle him to receive such pension, or until he assign or charge or attempt to assign or charge the same or any part thereof, or until the happening of any other event whereby such pension or any part thereof, if belonging absolutely to him, would become vested in or payable to some other person and not be applicable for the personal benefit of such pensioner, or until the circumstances of such pensioner shall for any reason have so changed as, in the opinion of the Managers, to render it inexpedient that he should any longer receive his said pension, so that such pension shall cease to be payable upon the happening of such of the said events as shall first happen.

Events upon which the original pensions are to determine.

(b) If and so often as the pension payable to any married original pensioner hereunder shall cease to be payable either by reason of his death or during his lifetime by the happening of any event other than his misconduct, then the Managers shall (unless in their discretion they deem it inexpedient so to do) pay to the wife or husband of such pensioner (as the case may be) a pension of such amount not exceeding the amount of the pension payable to such original pensioner as the Managers may think fit during the life of such wife or husband, or during such shorter period or periods, either continuous or discontinuous, and upon and subject to such terms and conditions as the Managers may deem proper.

(c) So much of the said income arising from the Pension Fund as from time to time shall not in the opinion of the Managers be required for the payment of any of the pensions mentioned in either of the two last preceding sub-sections shall from time to time be applied by the Managers in payment of pensions or allowances to such persons for the time being resident in Calcutta, and being of any Christian religion as may from time to time be selected by the Managers. Every such pension or allowance shall be of such amount (not exceeding in the case of any one person the sum of Rs. 25 per month) as the Managers may from time to time determine, and may be made payable during the life of the recipient thereof or during such shorter period or periods, either continuous or discontinuous, and determinable on such events and be subject to such conditions as the Managers may in each case deem expedient. In this sub-section the expression "Calcutta" shall mean and include every place situate within the town of Calcutta or the suburbs adjacent thereto (including Howrah), and in selecting pensioners under the provisions of this scheme the Managers shall, as far as practicable, give a preference to such persons as the Managers may consider to be East Indians or of European parentage and permanently domiciled in Calcutta. Provided that the Managers shall not be bound to make any pension or allowance determinable upon the recipient thereof ceasing to reside in Calcutta or to cease to pay any pension or allowance upon the recipient thereof ceasing to so reside.

(d) If and so often as any pensioner (whether original or otherwise) shall by reason of bodily or mental ill health be, in the opinion of the Managers, incapable of receiving his pension or allowance, the Managers may pay the same or any part thereof to such person on his behalf as they may think fit without being bound to see to the application thereof or being responsible for the misapplication thereof, or they may themselves apply all or any part of such pension or allowance in such manner as they may consider to be for the benefit of such pensioner.

(e) The Managers shall at all times keep proper books, and shall cause to be entered therein the names, addresses, and descriptions of all the recipients of pensions or allowances under this scheme and the respective amounts of such pensions and allowances, and also accounts of all monies received and expended by the Managers under this scheme, and all other matters likely to be useful for or in connection with the administration of the trusts hereof, or which may from time to time be required by the Government of Bengal to be entered in such books, and the Government of Bengal and any person appointed by them shall at all reasonable times have access to all such books and be at liberty to inspect the same and take copies or extracts therefrom.

As to payments to or for the benefit of incapacitated pensioners.

(f) The Managers shall also at all times, both during their tenure of office and after the determination thereof, furnish to the Government of Bengal or any person appointed by such Government all such information as the Government may require in relation to the trusts hereof or the administration thereof, or any other matters in anywise connected therewith.

Books to be kept by Managers.

Managers to give information to the Government of Bengal.

(g) The Managers may from time to time make such rules and regulations (not being inconsistent with the terms of this scheme) as they may think fit with reference to the management of the income of the Trust Fund and the mode of payment of any pensions or allowances, hereunder and otherwise in connection with the administration of the trusts of this scheme, and may from time to time alter or vary the same in such manner as they may deem expedient; provided that all such rules and regulations, and all alterations and variations thereof, shall as soon as practicable after the making thereof be submitted to the Government of Bengal, and any rule or regulation, whether original, or altered, or varied, which that Government shall consider improper or undesirable shall be forthwith cancelled.

6. All income arising from the Management Fund shall be applied by the Managers in payment of the expenses incurred by them in connection with the duties imposed on them by sub-section (e) of the last preceding clause hereof and so that for the purposes of such duties the Managers may from time to time employ an accountant or clerk upon such terms as they may think fit, provided that the salary for the time being payable to any such accountant or clerk shall not exceed the income for the time being of the Management Fund.

7. The receipt in writing of the person acting as treasurer to or other proper officer for the time being of the Managers shall be a good discharge to the Treasurer for all monies paid to the Managers under the provisions of this scheme, and the Treasurer shall not be in anywise responsible for the misapplication or non-application of any such monies, or be bound to see whether such monies or any of them are being applied in accordance with the provisions of this scheme.

8. The Treasurer may either permit the Trust Fund or any part thereof to remain in the state of investment in which it may be when the vesting order is made, or may under direction of the Government of Bengal, as provided in section 10 of Act VI of 1890, vary or transpose such investment or any future investments representing the Trust Fund or any part thereof into or for any other investment in which trust funds may for the time being be authorized by the law for the time being in force in India or in England to be invested, provided that, notwithstanding any change of investments, the Pension Fund and the Management Fund shall, as far as practicable, be kept separate.

9. In case any preferential right to take or subscribe for any new or other funds, shares, stock, or securities shall be offered to the Treasurer as holder of the Pension Fund or of the Management Fund, the Treasurer may, under such direction as aforesaid, dispose of or transfer any such new funds, shares, stock or securities or the title thereto in such manner as he may be directed, and every premium or profit arising therefrom shall, as well as all interest, dividends, bonuses or other advantages payable or receivable in respect of the Pension Fund or the Management Fund be treated as income of the Fund in respect of which it shall be payable or receivable.

10. Every Association who shall for the time being be Managers under this scheme shall hold their office until—

- (a) they shall be dissolved, or
- (b) they shall, by giving notice in writing to the Government of Bengal, resign their office, or
- (c) the Government of Bengal shall, by writing under the hand of the Secretary in the General Department, certify to the effect that, in the opinion of Government, they have seriously and persistently failed to observe or perform the provisions herein contained with respect to the application by them of the income of the Pension and Management Funds, or either of them, and upon the happening of any such event, such Association shall vacate their office of Managers.

11. If and so often as the office of Managers under this scheme shall by any means be vacant, the Government of Bengal may from time to time appoint any Association which they may think fit, to fill the vacant office. Provided that, if the District Charitable Society at Calcutta, who shall be the first Managers, shall vacate their office by reason of their dissolution, the Government of Bengal shall appoint as Managers in their place the successors of the said Society, if such successors shall, in the opinion of the Government of Bengal, be a charitable association constituted or organised under or in accordance with a scheme approved by the Government of Bengal; and so that in filling up any vacancy in the office of Managers the said Government shall, as far as may be practicable, always appoint an Association constituted or organised in manner last aforesaid.

12. Any Managers who shall vacate their office under any of the foregoing provisions shall thereupon deliver all monies in their hands subject to the trusts of this scheme, and all books and papers relating to the administration of the said trusts, or to any matters in anywise connected therewith to such person as the Government of Bengal may appoint for that purpose.

13. The Government of Bengal shall have power in their uncontrollable discretion to determine all questions, disputes or matters of doubt touching the construction, meaning or effect of these presents or any clause or thing herein contained, or the rights or liabilities of any person under these presents or otherwise howsoever in relation to the trusts hereof or arising in the execution of the trusts of these presents, and every determination, whether made upon a question actually raised or implied in the acts and proceedings of the Government of Bengal shall be conclusive and binding on all persons interested or claiming to be interested under this scheme.

President and Secretary shall prepare a certificate in the form prescribed by the Act. Such certificate shall be signed by the Vice-President and Secretary and shall be delivered to the owner, manager or agent of the steam-boilers inspected, on his paying the fees and other sums (if any) payable under rule IX on delivery of a certificate.

XI.—The declaration given shall have the effect of a certificate for 30 days from the date of inspection under rule VIII, but no longer; and unless the fees and other demands are paid, and the certificate taken out within that period, the owner, manager or agent shall be liable to all the penalties prescribed in the Act for using an uncertificated boiler. Provided that, if the boiler is worked under a declaration for any period less than 30 days, the owner, manager, and agent shall nevertheless be liable to pay the same fee as if he had taken out a certificate.

XII.—For every certificate of inspection granted under this Act, the owner, manager or agent of the steam-boiler inspected shall pay to the Commissioner of Police, or, when he is not a member of the Commission, to the Deputy Commissioner of Police, a fee calculated on the horse-power of the steam-boiler according to the scale laid down in rule XVII, and such additional fee in respect of the expense (if any) of the journey of the Inspector to the place where the boiler is situated, as is prescribed in rule XVIII.

XIII.—A certificate granted under this Act shall not be in force—

(1) after the expiration of one year from the date thereof, or

(2) after the expiration of the period, if less than one year, for which the boiler and machinery have been stated in the certificate to be sufficient, or

(3) after notice has been given by the Commissioners to the owner, manager or agent of the steam-boiler to which the certificate relates that they have cancelled or suspended it.

XIV.—There shall be two kinds of inspection of boilers—

(a) A thorough examination once every twelve months, inside and outside, to be made by one of the Inspectors in person, for which purpose the boilers must be empty, cool, and clean, and flues swept; and, if required by the Inspector, any parts or settings must be removed for a complete examination of the boiler in every part.

(b) An ordinary inspection made at any time when an Inspector has reason to believe that the boiler is being improperly worked, or that the person in charge is not competent.

XV.—The Inspector shall give one week's notice of every such intended thorough examination; and if after that notice the boilers are not empty, cool, clean, and ready for inspection on the date named, the Inspector shall prohibit the boilers from working, and shall report the case to the Commissioners. Further, if any request be made to remove fittings or settings, and such be not complied with, the Inspector shall in like manner stop the working of the boilers.

(a) Provided that the inspection of boilers in the Raniganj, Giridih, and Gobindpur sub-divisions, in the district of the Sonthal Parganas, or in the Municipalities of Burdwan and Bhagalpur, shall be made during the months of November to May inclusive, and the Inspector shall give 14 days' notice of the day when he will make such inspection.

(b) If any boiler needs inspection in the Raniganj, Giridih, and Gobindpur sub-divisions, in the district of the Sonthal Parganas, or in the Municipalities of Burdwan and Bhagalpur, during the months of June to October inclusive, either as being a new boiler requiring a certificate, or as being a boiler which the owner for any other reason wishes to have inspected, it may, on the application of the owner, manager or agent, be inspected during that period.

XVI.—The Vice-President and Secretary shall submit to the Commissioners at each meeting the Inspectors' reports on the boilers inspected, in the form of a diary which shall be recorded in the office.

ORIGINAL SIDE.

Dated 5th August 1895.

THE following Rules and Orders passed by the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal are republished for general information.

By order,

R. BELCHAMBERS,

Registrar.

It is ordered that the following Rules be read and passed as Rules of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, to take effect from the 12th day of August 1895 :—

1. From and after the 12th day of August 1895, three General Cause Lists shall be kept in the Registrar's Office, to be called respectively "General List of Causes," "General List of Suits for Liquidated Claims," and "General List of Commercial Causes."

2. Every suit which is a commercial cause, that is to say, in which the claim arises out of the ordinary transactions of merchants and traders—amongst others, those relating to the construction of mercantile documents, exports or imports of merchandise, affreightment, insurance, banking and mercantile agency and mercantile usage—shall be entered in the General List of Commercial Causes.

3. On and after the 12th day of August 1895, when a plaint is presented, the Judge shall, on the application to that effect of the plaintiff, unless he be of opinion, on reading the plaint, that the suit does not properly belong to the class of commercial causes, as described in rule 2, direct that the suit shall be placed in the General List of Commercial Causes. When no such application is made, it shall be for the Judge, when a plaint is presented, to determine whether the case shall as a commercial cause be placed in such list.

4. Either party may apply, by summons, to the Judge in Chambers that any case entered in the General List of Causes, whether before or after the 12th day of August 1895, may be transferred to the General List of Commercial Causes.

5. Either party may apply, by summons, to the Judge in Chambers, that any case entered in the General List of Commercial Causes may be transferred to the General List of Causes, on the ground only that the case is not a commercial cause; provided that the plaintiff shall not be entitled to apply under this rule for the transfer of a case from the General List of Commercial Causes if such case was entered therein on his application.

6. Whenever two or more Courts shall sit concurrently in the exercise of Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction, two or, if there be three Courts, three peremptory lists of defended causes shall be prepared for every working day, and, unless otherwise ordered, one or, if there be three Courts, two of such lists shall be supplied with cases from the General List of Causes, and the other with cases from the General List of Suits for Liquidated Claims, and from the General List of Commercial Causes, and also, when necessary, from the General List of Causes.

7. When only one Court shall sit in the exercise of Ordinary Original Civil Jurisdiction, one peremptory list of defended causes shall be prepared for every working day, and shall be supplied on such day or days of each week as such Judge may order, first with cases from the General List of Suits for Liquidated Claims, next from the General List of Commercial Causes, and next with cases from the General List of Causes.

8. All applications in Chambers and all motions in cases placed in the General List of Commercial Causes will be heard by the Judges in whose list suits for liquidated claims and commercial causes shall for the time being be set down.

9. The Rules of the Court for regulating its procedure on the Original Side are hereby confirmed, except so far as they are inconsistent with these rules.
